As our distribution partner or customer, we are required to inform you that the U.S. Department of Commerce requires that US companies who export products do so in accordance with applicable US laws. Failure to comply with these laws and regulations may result in severe penalties for the party exporting or re-exporting the goods. Restek seeks to condition its sales with the understanding that our purchasers will comply with these laws and regulations.

We ask that you please circulate this memo to all appropriate personnel within your organization.

Should you have reason to believe that Restek products are being used directly or indirectly in a restricted manner or being sent to a restricted entity or destination please contact us immediately.
